Notable features:

Relatively narrow (two windows to the width of 14'), numbers 308 and 310 are straight-forward examples of the corniced row house of this area. Number 306 is both wider and taller, although it is of the same date. It is more elegant than the others, with marble steps and rounded doorway. All three should be rehabilitated.

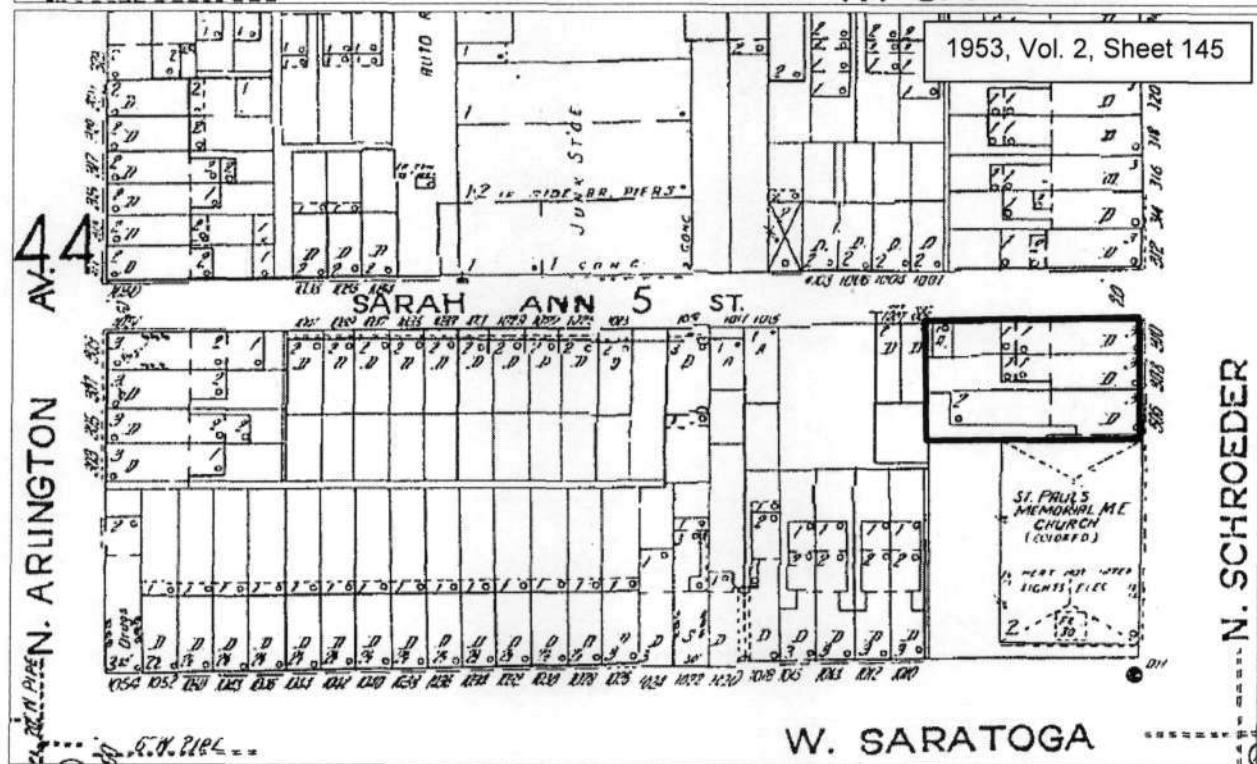

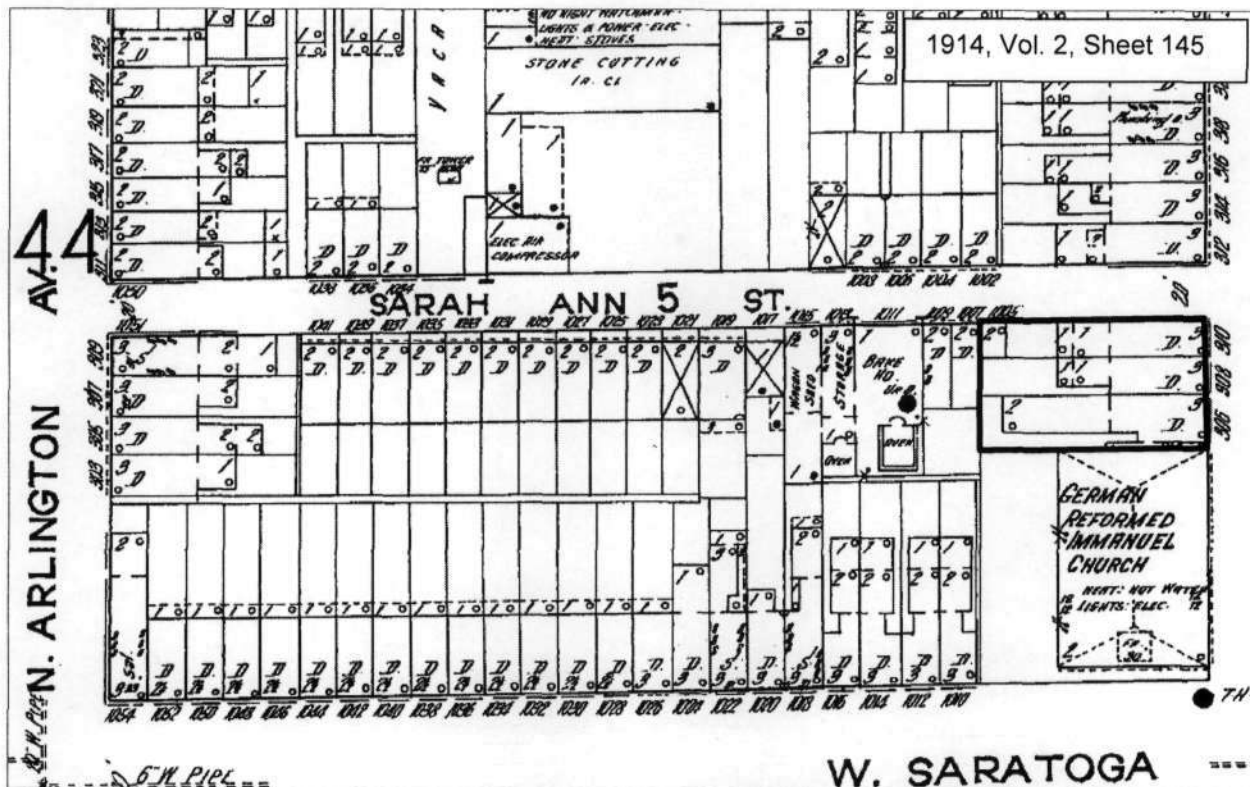

Environmental context:

Number 310 is vacant. Schroeder is wide but not busy at this time. When Fremont gets closed in 1976-77, Schroeder will become the alternate north-south route from Harlem Avenue to Pratt Street. Should one-way traffic be suggested, it should be opposed as strongly as possible. The street needs trees.
